CONNECTED

Are you a parent who have or have had cancer? Would you like to be our research partner?

The CONNECTED-project is a new project at Uppsala University that addresses you who have or have had cancer within the last five years and have children under the age of 18. The aim of the project is to study how parenthood and family life is affected when one parent has cancer, what support needs parents have and develop a support programme to meet those needs.

It is important for us to involve those who our research concern and give them a chance to contribute to it. Therefore, we would like to include a group of parents with experiences of parenting and cancer as research partners. As a research partner, you influence the focus and direction of the project with your hands on experiences and knowledge of being a parent while having cancer. Together we will discuss topics such as support needs, ethical aspects and you will have the opportunity to give feedback on, for example, material used for interviews and questionnaires.

Would you like to participate or know more about the project?
